

Adaptation Ideas for Classroom Use

Philadelphia Inclusion Network Professional

Development Program: REV 2015

Thomas Jefferson University

<http://jeffline.jefferson.edu/cfsrp>

Pipcamp@aol.com

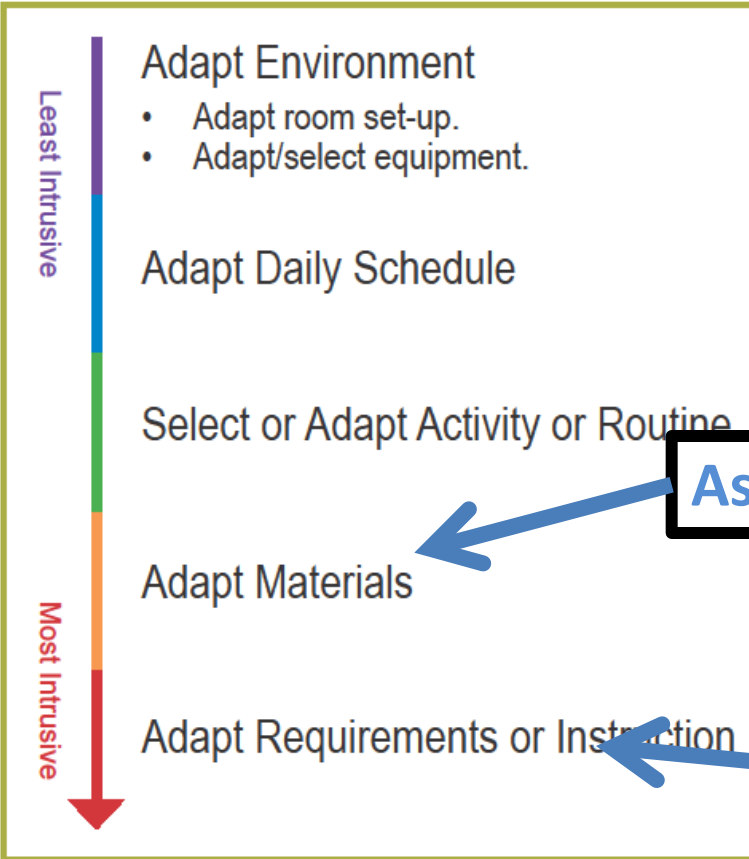

What Are Adaptations?

- Environmental strategies that support participation & learning
- Promote children's independence without (or with minimal) use of adult provided direct teaching.
- Include visual supports and Assistive Technology (AT) devices

ADAPTATION HIERARCHY

Assistive Technology (AT)

Visual Supports

Adapt Environment

Room Arrangement

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and Equipment

Furniture and Equipment

Lighting

PIN Adaptations Booklet 2015

Sound Absorbent Materials

Sound Absorbent Materials

Burlington Little School, Burlington, Washington

Adapt Daily Schedule

Free Play →

Clean up! →

Circle →

Centers →

Clean up! →

Outside →

Line up →

Lunch →

Nap →

Snack →

Free Play →

Clean up! →

Outside →

Line up →

Select or Adapt Activity or Routine

Adapt Materials

Materials

Materials

Materials

Using the rope as guided support

Adapted Toys

Adapt Requirements or Instruction

Communication - Supplementing Spoken Language

Communication – Expressive Language

Materials

Relaxation Thermometer

Mad

Take 3
deep breaths
1...2...3

Relaxed / relajado

Adapted from Incredible Years Dinosaur School

Ways of expressing emotions
(from the internet)

Negative Emotions Scale

Examples

Cindy Basso M. Ed. KID CODES: Helping Kids Figure It Out

Portable & Visual

Wristband
Learn More

Charms
Learn More

Pictures
Learn More

Follow the Foot Steps

PIN Adaptations Booklet 2015

ADDING VISUALS TO SPECIFIC ACTIVITIES

Picture Routine Book

Table of Contents

1. Morning Routine
2. What do you want to do?
3. Afternoon Routine
4. Naptime Routine
5. Dinner Time Routine
6. Night-Time Routine

What do you want to do?

I want to...

Choice Board

Commercial Supports from the Internet

Compiled by CFSRP, Thomas Jefferson University
130 S. 9th Street, Edison 633
Philadelphia, PA 19107

Philadelphia Inclusion Network (PIN)
CARA's Kit (Milbourne & Campbell, 2007; Campbell, Milbourne, Kennedy, 2012)

<http://jeffline.jefferson.edu/cfsrp>

2015

All PIN materials are available for downloading <http://jeffline.jefferson.edu/cfsrp/childcare-early.htm>

Please cite the full PIN Series materials as:

Campbell, P. H., Milbourne, S.A. & Wilson, C. A. (2015). Philadelphia Inclusion Network Training Series, Revised. Philadelphia, CFSRP, Thomas Jefferson University.

To cite an individual module, use the same authors with the title of the module (e.g., Campbell, P. H., Milbourne, S.A. & Wilson, C. A. (2015). Welcoming all children (Module 1). Philadelphia Inclusion Network Training Series, Revised. Philadelphia, CFSRP, Thomas Jefferson University.

The PIN Training Series emphasizes inclusion of children with disabilities, challenging behavior, and other participation and learning needs and the use of environmental strategies to structure children's physical, temporal and social environments, including:

1. Welcoming All Children
2. Promoting Development & Learning
3. Promoting Full Participation
4. PROMOTING SOCIAL EMOTIONAL DEVELOPMENT
 - 4A. Positive Behavior Support
 - 4B. Teachers As Coaches
 - 4C. Challenging Behaviors and Personalities
 - 4D. Children with ASD
5. STRUCTURING THE ENVIRONMENT
 - 5A. Adaptation & Accommodation
 - 5B. CARA's Kit
 - 5C. Visual Supports
 - 5D. Assistive Technology
6. Individualizing for Families
7. Early Intervention
8. Child Portfolio - ALL ABOUT ME

Over more than 20 years, many child care, early intervention, and preschool staff as well as parents of children with disabilities have contributed ideas for content and training activities. We especially thank Patricia Benvenuto, Lalita Boykin, Natalie Feller, Alexis Kennedy, Susan Kershman, Ameya Krishnann, Lillian McCuen, Robin Miller, Elyse Rosen, Christine Silverman, Francine Warton, Terry Waslow, and parents Mary Mikus, Margie Nash, Jean Ann Vogelman, and other families who work for their children to be part of inclusive communities.

